Caring for God's House - Together

Pastor to People

One of the many things I like about RRPC is that we see our building as a way to do ministry in our community. Almost daily I enjoy visiting with the nice folks at Share Your Care. When I see them I give thanks for their exemplary Monday through Friday ministry to special needs folks. I spent two years of my life after college working with special needs folks before I went to seminary. Those years were formative for me, and I truly enjoy interacting with the SYC employees and clients.

I also enjoy seeing the New Horizons Band folks on Tuesday mornings. Several of the band members have been friends of mine for a long time. We all enjoy their community concerts several times a year.

Also I am so glad other groups use our facilities, like the AA and Alanon groups and the Gentle Movement exercise group. We also have occasional recitals and special events by outside groups: Guardians of the Children, music recitals, and AA Gratitude dinners, for example.

As we think about our Capital Campaign going into 2025, let's remember that this place of worship is also a place of service for many others in our community. Always with our building and our attitude, we need to remember the imperative of Christian hospitality and service. As we begin our Lenten journey to Jerusalem, consider giving to the Capital Campaign. May your generous gift augment your time of spiritual renewal, and prepare us all to welcome others into our building, into our fellowship, and into our lives.

Blessings,
